HIFF line-up released

The second weekend in November is a great time to cozy up in wonderful stories. This year, Those Other Movies, the local TIFF Film Circuit group, will be presenting eight hand-picked films that illuminate so many different ways to experience the precious world we live in.

Friday starts with a comedy about a dysfunctional British family and closes with an intimate Polish drama: the 2015 Oscar winner for Best Foreign Language Film.

Saturday begins with an intense French-Canadian film by wunderkind Xavier Dolan; moves to a tender road trip in Spain involving John Lennon, leaps to a ticking-clock French drama about a working-class woman trying to keep her job, and caps off with the epic documentary by Avi Lewis and Naomi Klein about re-imagining the challenge of climate change.

Sunday shakes things up with a hilarious foul-mouthed, lesbian road movie that can be both silly and priceless and closes with a multi-dimensional documentary about a rebel poet, his legacy and Canada's own cultural roots.

Festival VIP passes are $40 and individual tickets, when available, are $10 at the door. The Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion is at the high school in Haliburton.

FRIDAY, Nov 13

First cash calendar winners drawn

The Haliburton and District Lions Club was excited to conduct the first of 12 monthly draws for their Super Cash Calendar Raffle. 270 balls went into to the drum.

And the winners are: draw # 1 for $100, Emile Duchene; draw # 2 for $200, Gord Kidd; and, draw # 3 for $500, Sheila Pitcher.

Fundraiser co-ordinator Lion Gail Stelter was very pleased with the great response and support of the community. "This fundraiser means that our Lions club can help more people. We raise money to give it away to those who need it most." Gail would like to remind everyone that the remaining 80 Cash Calendar Raffle tickets are on sale now. There are 11 more months of draws with three draws each month. That's 33 draws. Tickets cost $65. That is just $5.91 per month! Tickets are available at Cranberry Cottage and at Halco Electronics or call Gail at 705-457-3768.

One-act play festival coming to Highlands

By Angelica Blenich

Calling all thespians, theatre lovers and dramatic critics.

This November the Highlands Little Theatre will be hosting the Eastern Ontario Drama League's Festival of One-Act Plays, showcasing theatre groups from across the region in Haliburton County.

Taking place Nov. 6 to 8, the festival will include nine plays performed by eight of the league's members, including Kingston, Peterborough and Belleville.

Rotating to different locations every year, the festival has never been held in Haliburton before, said HLT committee member Amy Brohm.

The idea to bring it to the Highlands came from John Neving, former HLT chairman who has since left the county.

"It was something he started working on before he left," said Brohm.

The play being performed by HLT is one written by local community member Fay Martin, titled Oh Annie, starring Sue Tiffin, Lauren Forbes and April Martin.

Set in 1922, the storyline follows three women in Minden and could take place in modern day times.

"It's about a woman named Annie Angus who is a real person," said Brohm. "It's a fictionalized story about her."

The story covers issues that are pertinent in today's age, said Brohm, who is the stage manager for the production.

"We keep commenting on a lot of the issues they talk about are relevant today," she said.

The play is being directed by David McGill.

Each production during the festival will be adjudicated by a theatre professional, with the Haliburton production being critiqued by Carey Nicholson, who has been involved in performing arts for more than 35 years.

The plays will be performed in three blocks of three performances, starting Friday evening and continuing on Saturday afternoon and then finishing on Saturday evening. All performances will take place at the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion.

"It will be a great weekend of theatre," said festival committee member David Zilstra. "One-act plays are interesting because they tell a story in more abbreviated fashion than a two- or three-act performance."

Each play will be no longer than an hour in length and will showcase a variety of genres, including history, drama and comedy.

An awards presentation will take place on Sunday following a brunch at the Bonnie View Inn.

"These are top drawer shows," said Zilstra. "So you can expect some really good theatre."

"I think it's going to be a really fun weekend," said Brohm. "I'm looking forward to seeing as many plays as I can."

Tickets are $20 for a block of three performances, or $70 for a weekend pass that entitles you to see all the performances and includes Sunday brunch at Bonnie View Inn.

Tickets can be purchased by calling Jim Frost at 705-457-4031. For more information on the festival visit www.highlandstheatrelive.com or www.eodl.org/2015-one-act-play-festival.php.

Traffic safety campaign makes an impact on Ontario roads

Ontario Provincial Police officers were kept busy over the Thanksgiving weekend during the national four-day traffic safety initiative called Operation Impact. Enforcement efforts appear to be having an impact because preliminary statistics indicate that the numbers of charges in two of the four main causal factors in motor vehicle collisions are down over the same period last year.

What is alarming to police after this long weekend is that the number of stunt driving charges on Ontario roads are up 71 per cent over the same period last year.

Speeding and distracted driving charges are down, however police report the number of seat belt and impaired driving charges are up. Across the province, 478 seat belt charges were laid, and 83 people were charged with impaired driving. Four people lost their lives this weekend in fatal motor vehicle collisions; speed was a factor in two of the deaths, and in one of the fatalities, alcohol was involved.

"I find the weekend statistics alarming. Following the OPP's annual Fall Seat Belt Campaign that began in late September and resulted in almost 5,500 seat belt related charges being laid, it is disappointing to learn that people are still not wearing a seat belt. Motorists in this province know that wearing a seat belt can save your life. It is senseless for anyone to be in a moving motor vehicle without buckling up. OPP officers will remain vigilant beyond any traffic safety campaign to ensure that Ontario's roads are the safest in the country." Chief Superintendent Chuck Cox, OPP Highway Safety Division

The OPP is reminding all motorists to start preparing their vehicles for winter, and to be prepared to drive according to extreme and changing weather conditions in the months ahead.

Lucky bringing country-tinged folk to Dominion

By Jenn Watt

The highlight of Zachary Lucky's musical career hasn't been a specific award, release or performance – the highlight is the career itself.

When he took a chance on music in 2010, quitting his job as a "coffee slinger" to become a folk singer, his direction was uncertain. He just knew that he loved music and songwriting and wanted to commit to that dream.

Five years later, the Saskatoon-born artist has become a successful touring musician, performing across Canada, the U.S. and U.K.

"I don't think I would have expected that it would have taken me to New Mexico or to Nashville or to London, England or to Helsinki," said Lucky in an interview.

"When I started doing this it was merely just something I loved, you know? It was a passion: playing music and writing songs. And it's become so much more. It's become my life. It's enveloped me," he said.

When he decided to make his passion into his career, Lucky had just recorded his second EP, his first studio experience. Called Come and Gone, it garnered the kind of attention he was hoping for.

"I really felt like people had started to listen and I'd started to get some reviews and a fairly extensive Canadian tour behind it too," he said.

"With themes that vacillate between restless wanderlust and yearning for home, Come & Gone exudes a sense of longing that's most familiar on the prairies but is recognizable to anyone who's ever smoked a cigarette alone in their room at two a.m.," wrote Rachel Saunders of the album on exclaim.ca.

Come and Gone was followed by Saskatchewan in 2012 and The Ballad of Losing You in 2013.

Lucky describes himself as a folk musician with country influences. "I definitely have a strong appreciation for traditional country and western music and I take a lot of cues from that, but I also I'm strongly rooted in traditional folk music as well," he said.

In September, he released two new songs – Copper Kettle and Dublin Blues – and is touring in support of that release.

His tour will bring him to Minden's Dominion Hotel on Saturday, Oct. 24.

"I absolutely love Minden and I'm super excited to finally get up there," Lucky said.

He has spent some time in the area including a month at a nearby lake, and said Minden is the second last stop on his tour, which started in Vancouver.

Originally, the tour was supposed to be much larger, but issues with American visas meant he had to reorganize himself, starting with getting across the country by car.

Lucky has toured with groups before, but this time he is performing solo. It means he gets to do things his own way, a more intimate and personal show. However, it can also be lonesome.

"Driving from Toronto to Vancouver alone was wretched. I was a shell of a man," he laughs. "The first show I was so awkward because I hadn't talked to anybody in five days and I'd been driving straight."

Lucky now lives in Toronto and says the high number of talented young songwriters is inspiring and pushes him to be better. Saskatchewan is still his home though.

He is actually the second Lucky in his family to become a touring musician. His grandfather, Smiling Johnny Lucky, was a touring country singer and entertainer. And although the two have had parallel life paths, Zachary Lucky says he actually didn't know his grandfather as a musician while he was alive.

"The only time I'd ever see Johnny, he used to have country music jamborees on the family farm. As a teenager he would pop into our house once a year and sleep in our spare bedroom when he was playing shows around Saskatoon," he said.

As a teenager, Lucky wasn't overly interested in country music. It was only later that he came to enjoy the genre enough to appreciate what his grandfather had been up to.

"Johnny was very traditional. The music that he made when he was young was amazing," he said.

Lucky is working on recording many of the songs his grandfather wrote, which today are only accessible on cassettes and records.

Fueled by the challenge of articulating the human experience, Lucky says he isn't overly interested in the fame side of the industry.

He had a daughter in the spring and her emergence in the world has made him focus on what's important.

"I'm a little more concerned about being a good person and writing good songs these days," he said.

You can listen to Zachary Lucky's music online at zacharylucky.com.

He will be performing at the Dominion Hotel on Saturday, Oct. 24 starting at 8 p.m. Tickets are available online at dominionhotelpub.ca for $10 or at the door for $15. For more information contact the Dominion at 705-286-6954.

Haliburton County Paramedics helped gather food for the Fill the Truck food drive on Wednesday, Oct. 7, outside of the Echo office in Haliburton. From left, Kaitlin Forth, Chris Iles and Jenn Button. They collected thousands of pounds of food for local food banks. JENN WATT Staff

What to do with excess candy

Living Large

Humour by Steve Galea

If you live anywhere but one of the main streets in Haliburton County, the odds are good that you have few trick or treaters visiting you on Halloween.

Over the years this can lead to a dangerous buildup of candy stockpiles – because, let's face it, you can only eat so much candy.

Unfortunately, as of press time, there is no government agency that deals with the proliferation of chocolate and other sweets and – since everyone has the same problem – you can't even give the stuff away.

Fortunately for you, I have come up with 10 things you should never do with your excess Halloween candy.

1. Feed the squirrels. They are already hyperactive enough without six mini-Kit Kats in their system. Feed them these and they'll dig up your lawn looking for every nut they lost since 1994.
2. Use two Smarties as nostril plugs. Sure there are times (after chili night) when one of your friends makes breathing uncomfortable, but trust me, during those times, the Smarties just melt. And then you have to explain why you have a brownish substance all over your nose.
3. Use two Smarties as ear plugs. Again, they melt and you really don't want to add to the rumour that you have crap for brains.
4. Make a rope out of old licorice. It just breaks when you need it most.
5. Play ring toss with Life Savers – unless you don't mind frustration.
6. Go gummy bear hunting. There's just no meat on the things.
7. Let the jujubes get too hard before you throw them at your spouse from across the room to catch in his/her mouth. Divorce lawyers and dentists love this one.
8. Store the chocolate in the sauna. It's too hard to explain to guests.
9. Offer your excess Halloween candy to the kids in your friends kindergarten class. The kids will love you but you'll need to find a new friend.
10. Offer those healthy Halloween apples to the deer. Even they'll be suspicious.

Follow the rules during hunting season

The Ontario Provincial Police encourages hunters to learn and follow the following list of rules when hunting in Haliburton County. These rules have been supplied directly to OPP by the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources.

Hunting Safety Rules:

- All hunters must wear solid hunter orange clothing (a minimum of 400 square inches or 2,580 square centimetres above the waist) and a hunter orange head cover during gun seasons for deer, moose and elk. Outside the gun seasons for deer, moose and elk these requirements also apply to bear hunters who are not hunting from a tree stand.
- Handle firearms with care and attention at all times.
- Hunters must never shoot unless they are absolutely sure of their target and what lies beyond it.
- It is illegal to shoot from a vehicle or carry a loaded firearm in or on a vehicle.
- It is illegal to discharge a firearm from or across the travelled portion of a right of way for public vehicular traffic. In many parts of Ontario it is also illegal to have a loaded firearm, or discharge a firearm, in any part of the right of way.
- Never drink alcohol and hunt.

General Safety:

- Tell someone where you will be hunting and when you will be returning.
- Know the weather conditions in your hunting area and dress accordingly.
- In an emergency, stay calm and stay put.
- Avoid hypothermia. Know how to treat it if it strikes.
- Keep hydrated and well nourished.
- Carry a survival kit and a small first aid kit with you at all times.
- Know how to build a fire in all weather conditions and carry the supplies to start one.
- Carry a map and compass or GPS unit and know how to use them.

General Hunting Rules:

- A hunter cannot transfer his/her game seal or possess a game seal issued to another person.
- After a moose, deer, elk or bear is killed, the game seal holder must immediately attach the valid game seal to the animal in the manner prescribed on the seal, and it must remain attached during transportation.
- Hunters must make sure they can identify their targets appropriately, whether distinguishing between deer, moose and elk, or ensuring the animal they are hunting belongs to the age or sex of animal they are licensed to hunt.
- Natural attractants containing body fluids (urine, blood, etc.) of any cervid (moose, deer, elk) may no longer be possessed or used for the purposes of hunting in Ontario. This regulation is designed to help prevent chronic wasting disease from entering the province. More information is available at ontario.ca/cwd.
- Bear cannot be hunted within 400 metres of a waste disposal site.
- Hunters must remove any temporary structures, including tree stands, placed on Crown land.

Party Hunting:

- Party hunting means two or more people hunting together. The rules include:
- All members of the party must hunt together in the same wildlife management unit as the person who holds the seal for the moose, deer, elk or bear being hunted. Hunting party members must be within five kilometres of the seal holder.
- Each member of the hunting party must be able to communicate reliably and immediately with other members of the party. The person who kills a moose, deer, elk or bear while hunting in a party must immediately notify all other members.
- Once an animal is killed the seal holder must immediately attend the site of the kill and affix the game seal to the animal.
- Each person in a hunting party must have a valid hunting licence.
- The total number of animals of a specified sex or age killed by the party cannot exceed the total number of seals validated for that sex or age that members of the party hold.

For information on regulations and seasons, consult the Hunting Regulations Summary.

To report unlawful night hunting or any other illegal and unsafe hunting activity, call the MNRF TIPS Line at 1-877-847-7667 or Crime Stoppers anonymously at 1-800-222-8477.

The Great Outdoors and Hunting Feature

Staying safe while hunting from your tree stand

By Steve Galea

These days bow and gun hunters commonly use tree stands for bear, deer and moose. A properly placed stand provides a great vantage point and keeps you over the normal line of sight of the animals you're hunting. Most importantly, it keeps your scent above it all too.

But tree stands, like all hunting tools, can kill or seriously injure you if used carelessly.

Here are a few practices to help you stay safe:

Before using a stand, always read the manual or watch the product safety video. Do this frequently and certainly prior to each hunting season.

Ensure your stand is in good condition. Pay particular attention to any rust, welds and the platform. Make sure straps are not torn or frayed; confirm all parts are there.

Initially, set up your stand up in a controlled environment with good lighting, low to the ground. This will help you familiarize yourself with it in a relaxed setting.

Try to set up stands on straight, vertical, healthy, rough-barked trees of a diameter recommended in your instruction manual. If possible, avoid setting up over rocky ground or other unsafe features.

Don't skimp on screw-in steps if you need them.

Don't even think about climbing into a tree stand if you are tired, suffering from dizzy spells, feeling ill, under medication, or the influence of alcohol or drugs. Better yet, don't hunt at all.

Always wear a safety harness when climbing, descending or sitting on the stand.

Stay on the ground if wind is causing the excessive tree sway or you suspect ice has built up on climbing steps, ladders or platform.

If you find yourself dozing off in a tree stand – it's easy to do – it's time to get down.

Always let someone know which stand you are using and how long you plan on staying. Text or phone if those plans change.

Never reuse a safety harness after falling out of a stand. It can no longer be guaranteed safe after it has saved you on the first fall.

Learn how to avoid suspension trauma should you find yourself hanging from a safety harness after falling out of a stand. Most harness manuals have excellent instructions on this. If not, look up these techniques on YouTube.

Know how to perform a self-rescue when hanging from your harness.

Keep your cellphone accessible.

Never carry gear while climbing into the stand. Instead, use a haul rope to raise and lower gear.

Never raise or lower a loaded firearm or crossbow.

Wear footwear that isn't clumsy or slippery on your stand's platform.

Ensure you plus your gear don't exceed the recommended weight capacity of the stand.

Do not step into a homemade tree stand unless you are absolutely certain of its safety.

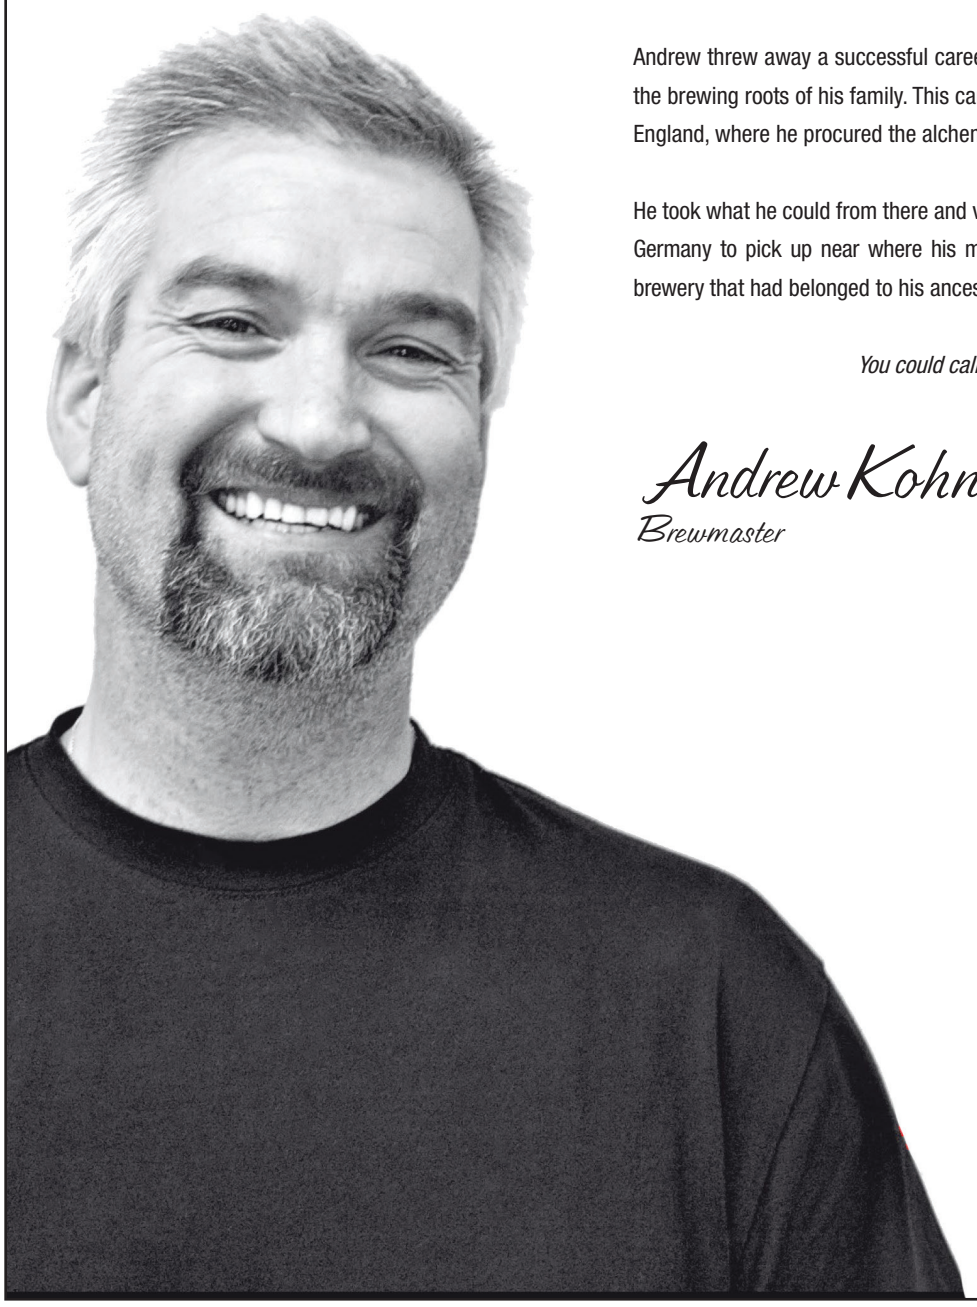
WE DON'T BREW OUR BEER FOR THE AWARDS!

BUT HE DOES!



Andrew threw away a successful career in Logistics to pursue his dream of reconnecting with the brewing roots of his family. This carried him to the UK's prestigious Brewlab in Sunderland, England, where he procured the alchemy that would drive his signature brewing style.

He took what he could from there and ventured to Scotland, Cornwall, and ultimately to Krefeld, Germany to pick up near where his mother's family brewery had been, working in the same brewery that had belonged to his ancestors. He came home to Canada for Hockley.

You could call it dumb, but we call it destiny.

MBC donates truckload to food bank

The Maple, Beech & Cameron (MBC) Lakes Area Property Association's first Thanksgiving Food Drive was a great success. More than 60 people dropped off their donations at St. Peter's Church, Maple Lake on Oct. 11 and 12. Donated goods,delivered to the Minden Community Food Centre, included non-perishable goods, fresh fruit, veggies and toiletries.

In total, MBC collected approximately 300 pounds of goods (one very full pick-up truck) and $400 in cash donations. MBC would like to thank all those who participated and the Echo for promoting the event.

MBC Volunteer Murray Adams with a very full truck load of donations.
